

Football and Life Stories Combine in One Man's Story of Spirituality

McALLA, Ala., March 23 /Christian Newswire/ -- There comes a single moment in many people's lives that defines who they have been and who they are destined to become. For some people it comes at the most unexpected of times. For Jerry Glover it came at a moment that was one of the lowest in his life. Play to Win (published by iUniverse) by Jerry Glover uses a collection of stories based on his time as a force in Alabama football as a vehicle for sharing his views on spirituality and his relationship with God.

Play to Win utilizes the concept that winning in life is similar to winning in football. Glover recounts stories from his sixty-five years of life as a roadmap both to success in life and salvation with God. Glover begins Play to Win with the story of how he came to Jesus. From there he tells many stories about his time both as a football coach for various Alabama high school football teams and his time working for the legendary Coach Bear Bryant. Play to Win is written for anyone who is lost and in need of guidance or for those who just need a gentle reminder of what is most important in life.

"As I made this commitment to God, a very strange peace fell upon me immediately. It seemed to me that all would be well now, although I knew that I had just made one commitment to which I must be faithful. This could not be one of those other deals that could be blinked at and slid away from. In retrospect, it was this very attitude that allowed God to move into my life. I knew that this was one commitment that must be kept if I expected the result, and I desperately needed results."

Jerry Glover was born in Portsmouth, Virginia. He attended the University of Alabama and managed the "Crimson Tide" under Coach Paul William "Bear" Bryant. After graduating Glover went on to coach football and become a successful business owner. Glover now lives in McCalla, Alabama with his wife of thirty four years, Karen.
